Please note that all our pizzas are cooked in our original wood fire oven bringing you the authentic flavour of Naples to your table.

In 1889 - Umberto 1, King of Italy and his wife, Queen Margherita di Savoia, in Naples on holiday, called to their palace the most popular of the pizzaioli (pizza chef) Raffaele Esposito, to taste his specialities. He prepared a pizza with mozzarella, basil and tomatoes (in the colours of the Italian flag). The Queen liked this pizza so much that she sent to the pizzaiolo a letter to thank him saying, "I assure you that the pizza you have prepared was very delicious." Raffaele Esposito dedicated his speciality to the Queen and called it Pizza Margherita. This pizza set the standard by which today's pizza evolved as well as firmly establishing Naples as the pizza capital of the world.
